Forecast for Friday 04 Sep 2020

Weather: Generally dry during the early hours of Friday morning with some clear spells, although the odd shower may affect the south of the park. Clouding over during the morning with a risk of some showery rain edging in from the southwest but this isn't expected to be overly heavy. Drier later in the day with some sunshine by the evening. Feeling quite cold across summits in the strong winds.

Chance of cloud free mountain/hill tops above 600m: 80%. Occasional patches of cloud above 800m.

Visibility: Generally very good with excellent views, superb visibility and distant hills clearly definable. Locally deteriorating temporarily to moderate as showers come through. Very poor in hill cloud.
